

TRAVEL INSPIRATION FOR OUR MOST LOYAL FLYERS

UNITED

Hemispheres

MAY 2021

Three Perfect
Days

Puerto Rico

Where you can hear music
everywhere,
including in front of Old
San Juan's
5-foot-wide
Casa Estrecha

The Best New
Hotels of 2021

The Hemi Q&A with Colson Whitehead

Designer Dining in Accra, Ghana

A STAR ALLIANCE MEMBER

FOR WELLNESS WARRIORS

Miraval Berkshires

Lenox, Massachusetts

If we've learned anything from this past year, it's that self-care is not optional. Miraval has known this for a while—the brand's logo looks like the letter "I" for a reason—and the wellness resort's third outpost, which opened in July on 380 acres in the Berkshire Hills, is a godsend for those in need of a little me time. Available activities are alternately contemplative (sound bath meditation) and adventurous (a high-flying challenge course), and the spa is an oasis of calm offering treatments such as the full-body Hara Soother. Indoor pathways connect the 100 rooms and suites to everything, meaning you can wear your robe all day—even to dinner. The meals are included and manage to be indulgent and guilt-free at the same time. After all, guilt is strictly forbidden here. You deserve this. From $669, miravalberkshires.com

FOR MICHAEL
JORDAN STANS

Graduate Chapel Hill

North Carolina

If bingeing The Last Dance was the high point of your 2020, plan a pilgrimage to the place where Air Jordan took off. Opened last August near the UNC campus, the college-themed hotel chain's 23rd property (get it?) is brimming with references to the Tar Heel legend: backboard-inspired headboards, a lobby painting of MJ's student ID, even a front desk modeled to look like the scoreboard when he sank the game-winning shot against Georgetown in the 1982 NCAA Championship game. While you can't stay in Room 23, be sure to get a tour, as it's an exact replica of Jordan's Granville Towers dorm room, right down to the posters on the wall and the records on the shelf. From $169, graduatehotels.com

